Bridging Boundaries Action Lab: Parole, Probation, and Homeless System Partnerships
Frequently Asked Questions
Version 1, Updated August 28, 2023

1. Does Homebase work outside of California?
Yes. While Homebase is headquartered in San Francisco and work in nearly every county in California, we have a thirty-year history of working with Continuums of Care, counties, and cities across the country on a variety of technical assistance including obtaining funding, conducting gaps analysis, providing training, and developing strategic plans. We are also a technical assistance and resource provider for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development across multiple issue areas and partners including unsheltered homelessness, Emergency Solutions Grants, Stella M, Supportive Services for Veterans and Families, Housing and Urban Development-VA Supportive Housing, and Public Housing Authorities.

2. May I apply to the Action Lab without a partner, or with someone from my agency?
No. Co-applicant pairs must include: (1) one partner from the homelessness response system and (2) one partner from the probation and/or parole systems. Each co-applicant must be representative of a different system. You should have an established relationship with your co-applicant, as well as overlapping jurisdiction in the geographic area in which the project will be implemented.

3. Who should I contact with other questions?
Please reach out to actionlab@homebaseccc.org. We will update this document as we receive questions.
