

Interrupting Cycles of Harm: Housing Strategies and Supports for Criminalized Survivors of Domestic Violence and Human Trafficking

Date: Thursday, May 19th | Time: 9:30 a.m. -12:30 p.m. PT

Click Here to Register!

FEATURING:

Andrea P. Diaz,
Training Institute Manager,
MISSEY

Panel One:

Housing's Role in Cycles of Harm

Including speakers from The Coalition Against Trafficking in Women, Newark Community Street Team, and the National Housing Law Project.

Panel Two:

Interrupting Harm Through Community Partnerships

Including speakers from Home Free, the Morgan Hill Police Department, and the survivor advocate community.

This virtual event will:

Bring together cross-system partners to share perspectives on the role that housing plays in perpetuating or ending cycles of harm for criminalized survivors of human trafficking and domestic violence.

Highlight work being done in our communities to better recognize and address the housing needs of criminalized survivors.

Create an opportunity for cross-sector education about how increasing access to safe, stable housing can serve as an alternative response to violence.

Homebase

ADVANCING SOLUTIONS TO HOMELESSNESS